Cookie definition

A cookie is a small piece of text that websites send to the browser and is stored on the user's terminal, which may be a personal computer, a mobile phone, a tablet, etc. These files allow the website to remember information about your visit, such as language and preferred options, which can make your next visit easier and make the site more useful for you. Cookies play a very important role in improving user experiences on the web.

Types of cookies

Depending on who is the entity that manages the domain from which you are sent cookies and who treats the data obtained, two types can be distinguished: party cookies and third party cookies.

There is also a second ranking according to the length of time they remain stored in the client browser, which can be session cookies or persistent cookies.

Finally, there is another classification with five types of cookies according to the purpose for which the data are processed: technical cookies, cookies for customization, testing cookies, advertising cookies and behavioral advertising cookies.

List of the cookies on this web site
